TROOPS GUARD MEXICAN CHIEF AFTER TRAIN IS DYNAMITED

Attempt to Kill President Portes Gil Fails.

LEADER SILENT

Plot is Attributed to Sympathizers of Toral.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11.—Drastic precautions were taken here today to guard President Emilio Portes Gil, following an attempt to assassinate him by blowing up his train with a dynamite bomb near Comonfort, state of Guanajuato.

When the president arrived at 1:20 a. m. federal troops formed a cordon about the railway station and escorted the president to the presidential palace.

President Portes Gil refused to comment upon the attempt upon his life which is attributed to sympathizers of Jose de Leon Toral, who was executed Saturday for killing President-elect Alvaro Obregon.

Flying Golden Eagle Monoplane, 23-year-old Girl Beats Elinor Smith's Record.

ALOFT 14 HOURS AND 16 MINUTES

Seeks to Better Distance of 930 Miles for Planes With a Sixty Horsepower Motor.

MINES FIELD, LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 11.—Flying a single motor Golden Eagle monoplane, Bobbie Trout, 23-year-old girl, shattered the world's sustained flight record for women at 7:32 a. m. today, having remained aloft 14 hours and 16 minutes, one hour longer than the record time established by Elinor Smith, New York "flapper flier."

Determined to remain in flight for 17 hours, Miss Trout was aiming at another record besides the endurance mark. She seeks to better the distance flying record of 930 miles for planes equipped with 60-horsepower motors. Her plane has a Lebed 60-horsepower motor that was still humming rhythmically when she equalled the endurance mark.

She took off yesterday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

Claims Altitude Record. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 11.—Whether or not Miss Marvel Crosson broke the women's altitude of 20,700 feet will not be determined until the sealed barograph is opened at Washington, D. C., it was announced today.

Miss Crosson took off from Santa Monica yesterday afternoon and remained aloft two hours and thirty minutes. The altimeter stated she noticed her altimeter registering 20,000 feet before engine trouble forced her down several thousand feet. She forced the plane up again but it is certain what altitude she gained.

PASTOR TELLS STORY OF LIFE

Story of his life and conversion was told by the Rev. John Sharpe, Martinus Ferry, at the meeting of the Sunday afternoon club in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

Fifty-five men between the ages of 16 and 35 attended. William G. Parker presided.

The speaker, a native of Scotland, came to this country at the age of 16, learned the trade of a printer, and worked in paper mills at Holyoke, Mass. He later graduated from high school, completing a four-year course in two and one-half years. He also graduated from Amherst college.

He recommended three rules for young men—work, think constructively and guard against temptations.

Inventor, However, Sees Danger in Stock Speculation.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison, the world's greatest inventor, in an interview today on the occasion of his eighty-second birthday, predicted that greater national prosperity will come during President-elect Hoover's administration, but sounded a warning that there is a danger of "loss of confidence and ultimate panic in the increasing orgy of stock speculation."

Flying for Business. Please Don't Gamble. A Bank for Brokers. Too Many Old People.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

LINDERBERGH, who has not traveled on a railroad train since his flight to Paris, sets a flying example followed by many.

H. C. Meigs, publisher of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, keeps a big airplane for his trips from Chicago to the Pacific Coast, and for other errands. Mr. Stewart head of Standard Oil of Indiana, has one of Henry Ford's three engine all metal machines for his use and that of his board of directors.

AND Col. E. A. Deeds, who put the electric starter in automobiles, actually keeps an all metal three-engine plane anchored in his front yard, at Dayton, Ohio.

When he travels, the plane travels with him. He flew into Tavana a few days ago with his wife, her maid, his secretary, the treasurer of his company and two general managers. After examining various properties, he flew with his party, 235 miles in two hours.

GET YOUR AIRPLANE.

UNHAPPY speculators, stepping off the price list toboggan when the market closed on Friday, had all of Saturday to answer calls for margin and reflect on the advice "don't gamble."

Nothing will happen to American values. All those in honest, capable hands will be worth more than ever, no matter what the Federal Reserve Board may do.

But all sorts of things may, and probably will, happen to those that gamble, and go beyond their depth. The ocean is all right, but it's no place for those that cannot swim.

IN response to warnings from the Federal Reserve, banks withdrew on Friday $25,000,000 of call loans. The idea was "to discourage speculation." That speculation keeps big banks and their gigantic profits alive, but that is another story.

WHEN loans were called, the rate moved from 6 to 9 per cent. Banks calling loans, sacrificed 6 per cent, on $25,000,000 and made an additional 3 per cent on about four billions.

Figure that out and learn that the banks did not lose anything.

IT is not serious that finance is not understood by anybody, least of all by bankers, too close to it.

But even a child, on a farm, could understand that systematic usury must be harmful. Even as base a thing as a speculator, buying American securities, should not be robbed too systematically.

IT is probable that investigation of the Federal Reserve banks, and its accidental or intentional promotion of bank profits, through usury, will follow the latest Federal Reserve action, responsible for a loss, widely scattered, of three or more billions in a few hours.

Why do not stock exchange men protect themselves and their customers from financial tyranny? They could establish a great bank, especially for their own purposes. Compelling brokers to make call loans at that

VATICAN, ITALY SIGN TREATY OF AMITY IN ROME PALACE

Officials of Church And State Witness Ceremony.

INDEMNITY PAID

Cardinal Gasparri and Premier Mussolini Act.

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL.

ROME, Feb. 11.—The treaty of conciliation settling the 50-year-old conflict between the Catholic church and the Italian state was signed at noon today in the Lateran palace.

Only a handful of men—officials of the church and the state—witnessed this historic event as the long standing dispute was sealed in amity and friendship.

Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state and the representative of Pope Pius XI, signed in behalf of the church; Premier Mussolini, who also holds the post of foreign minister among his other portfolios in the Italian government, signed as deputy for King Victor Emmanuel.

Pope Reduces Sum Due. Mussolini was accompanied by Minister of Justice Rocco.

The scene of the brief ceremony was the council hall of Lateran palace, a vast chamber 113 feet long and 56 feet wide. The document was placed upon an enormous old table upon which the peace terms of 1870 were signed.

The stipulated "indemnity" to the Vatican consists of 750,000,000 lire in cash, plus 1,000,000,000 lire in government bonds. This whole amount, it is said, represents only one-third of the money owing by the Italian state to the Vatican. Pope Pius XI, generously reduced the original sum of his own initiative.

The "indemnity" represents money in the form of annuities voted to the Vatican by the Italian parliament, in 1871. It was never collected.

Acknowledges Pope's Sovereignty. Observator Romano, the official organ of the Vatican, in commenting upon the terms of the settlement, says:

"Italy's full acknowledgment of the pope's sovereignty gives the Vatican a moral and judicial strength that no territorial magnitude would equal."

The signing was recorded by moving picture cameras.

A great crowd had gathered in the square outside the palace. The people gave a loud cheer when the semi-official communiqué announcing the settlement.

The first new papal flag was hoisted over the Catholic club, near the Vatican, in celebration of the historic occasion.

No Temporal Competition. Cardinal Gasparri was reported satisfied.

FORMER STATE TREASURER TO BE SENTENCED ON MARCH 11

Federal Judge Hough Refuses to Arrest Judgment.

REJECTS MOTIONS

Defendant Convicted of Liquor-Bribery Charges.

By John J. Vincent.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 11.—Motions for a new trial and for an order of judgment on behalf of Bert B. Buckley, erstwhile Ohio state treasurer, were both overruled by Federal Judge Benson W. Hough here today.

Maximum Sentence 23 Years. The jurist announced that he would sentence Buckley, who was convicted on liquor conspiracy and attempted bribery charges, on March 11.

John L. Schimper, Cincinnati attorney, and Joseph Sperber, Cincinnati brewmaster, were jointly indicted with Buckley in connection with the "beer-brewery-bribery" case, but who pleaded guilty when arraigned, will also be sentenced on that day. Buckley was not in the courtroom when the motions were argued, and his whereabouts could not be learned.

Buckley faces a maximum term of imprisonment of 23 years, and a maximum fine of approximately $25,000.

Carry Case to Circuit Court. Attorneys for the former state official announced he would carry the case to the circuit court of appeals.

Wellmore B. Turner, Dayton, member of Buckley's defense staff, in pleading for the motion for a new trial, called John L. Schimper, "the beer-brewery-bribery" case.

Harry Abrams, Cincinnati, assistant U. S. district attorney, pleaded the government's side of the case.

Defense Arguments. In asking for the new trial for Buckley, Turner charged that Judge Hough erred in making his instructions; that a conversation between Schimper and John F. Eckhart, the government's star witness, should have been introduced in the testimony; that the fact that Buckley had any criminal intent was not shown; and that the notes of a dictograph recorded conversation made by Eckhart had been altered.

All of the above was brought out in the recent trial, which started Jan. 23, and which ended Feb. 2, when the jury of 12 men found the former state official guilty of charges of attempted bribery and conspiracy to violate prohibition laws.

It took Turner about an hour and 20 minutes to present his argument.

Buckley Now 50 Years Old. In less than a half hour, Abrams, the government attorney, tore the defense's arguments to shreds.

Sentence of the convicted conspirators was deferred until March 11, in order to give the attorneys for Buckley time to appeal the verdict of the court here.

Buckley is now 50 years old and if he is given the maximum sentence provided by law, he will in all probability spend the remainder of his life in jail.

TWO MEN DEAD IN $400,000 FIRE

MANFIELD, O., Feb. 11.—Two men dead, a theater and bakery destroyed, a garage damaged and property loss of $400,000 was the toll taken by a fire which swept the downtown business section here Sunday.

The origin of the fire remained undetermined today. It started in the Madison theater, leaving only two walls of the building standing. One of the toppling walls fell across Libary court and crushed into the Dickson bakery causing a gas explosion. Several cars in an adjacent garage were damaged when the other wall crashed to the ground.

Charles Reiser, 35, and Sidney Hendlerline, 30, were killed when buried beneath a wall, which they had been engaged to tear down after the fire. Hendlerline was killed instantly and Reiser died enroute to a hospital.

Take that dirty ring out of your bathtub!

AFTER a bath, hard water leaves a dirty ring. The soap combines with the hardness and makes scum. The scum collects dirt. The dirty ring sticks to the sides of the bathtub. It has to be scrubbed off.

But soften the water with Melo and there isn't any dirty ring on your bathtub. Melo makes water delightfully soft and a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. It saves from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ the amount ordinarily used. It makes soap more effective. Use Melo wherever you want soft water. Get it at your grocer's.

Letters To The Editor

Toral Execution.
Chester, W. Va., Feb. 11, 1929.
Editor, Review,
East Liverpool, O.
Dear sir:

The Mexico City dispatch in The Review of Saturday about Toral, slayer of Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, is another false and malicious attack on the Catholic church. The barefaced calumny is so strong that it is not difficult to disclose.

Toral is a murderer and to maintain that he is hailed as a martyr by the devout members of the Catholic church all over Mexico is an infernal lie, to say the least. Mexicans do hail as martyrs, and justly so, the many priests that have been shot down like dogs because they exercised their priestly functions according to the dictates of their conscience, such as celebrating mass, hearing confessions and teaching Christian doctrine in private homes. Indeed, they prayed most fervently for the priests whom the Mexican government ordered to be executed so that they keep the grace of fortitude and remain true to their faith to the end, like the early Christians who prayed for the ones condemned to death because they would not give up their Christian religion and serve idols. The Catholic church never sanctioned murder and no matter for what cause and, if she did, the 90 per cent. who are Catholics in Mexico would have wiped President Calles of Mexico and his agents from the face of the earth.

At another time an article appeared in which it was stated that a nun, a superior of a religious order in Mexico, was responsible for the cruel act of Toral. It was proven later that neither the nun nor the Catholic church had any connection with the affair, but that a political organization of non-Catholics influenced Toral to slay Obregon and this was given out under oath.

As far as the church all over Mexico being filled with men and women, as the article states, and that masses are said for Toral can not be true because all Catholic churches were closed several years ago and the Mexican government does not permit divine services in them. How then can masses be celebrated therein and how can the churches be filled with worshippers? Just last week a priest was imprisoned because he said mass in a private home.

In our last presidential campaign we Catholics suffered on account of the dreadful falsehoods told about our religion by ignorant bigots and, since those lies are being forgotten, the agents of satan are having recourse to other methods in order to keep up the prejudice against the Catholic church. The article of Saturday is an insult to us and I am therefore coming out in public again in defense of the Catholics of this locality.

Sincerely in Christ,
REV. WM. J. SAUER,
Pastor of Sacred Heart church.

Editor's note—The news dispatch mentioned in the above communication was received by The Review through its regular news channel, the International News Service, and was written by the latter's correspondent in Mexico City.

To All Lovers Of Fine Pictures:

It has been suggested to me that possibly some people might think that the beautiful production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which comes to this theatre soon is merely a picturization of the old drama shown on the stage.

If such an impression exists, it is most erroneous

Universal's screen version is the most pretentious effort ever made with this American story as the vehicle. It required two years to make and cost nearly two million dollars.

In the stage plays, the crudest of painted scenery was used. In Universal's picture version the entire company was sent into the Southland and much of the play was enacted in the very country where the action was laid by the author.

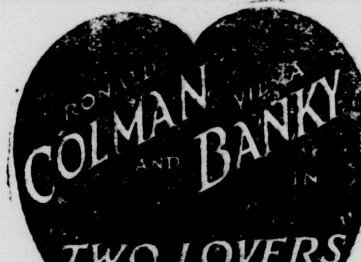

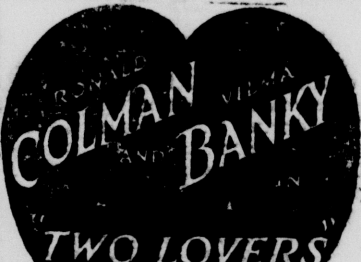

Dame Nature was the scenic artist

And you simply can't conceive the beautiful and natural effects thus secured. No painter in the world, regardless of the character of his talent, could possibly reproduce on canvas the quaint beauty that has been secured through the medium of the camera.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," as produced by Universal, will be a source of constant wonder to you from title to conclusion. It can be said, in all truthfulness, that never before has "Uncle Tom's Cabin," been played in such a mighty and realistic manner. This picture, as Universal has created it, is not just a picture. It is a great spectacle, peopled with talent that has never had an equal, in my estimation, and you cannot gain any notion of its grandeur without seeing it with your own eyes.

Hospital Method Doctors Now Advise For Home Use Helps Many Here to End Colds

Miss Bertha Lee, trained nurse, is still another, like numbers of East Liverpool people, who has found the pleasant hospital method doctors now advise for home use is the quickest to end a head cold, cough or chest cold.

Miss Lee awoke with a slight fever and "achy," irritated feeling in her nose, throat and chest. Instead of ending it at once by prompt treatment, she neglected the cold to nurse a patient who was seriously ill. That night the cold bothered her so she could not sleep and by morning congestion caused her to fear pneumonia and call one of the hospital physicians. Bitter Irony, Deep Sarcasm
In Comic Valentines Here

Whatever You do or Don't do, There's Dirty Dig for You for One Cent.

Bitter irony, deep sarcasm and pointed humor are contained in so-called comic valentines which are displayed on counters in East Liverpool stores for Valentine day, Thursday.

Comic valentines, sold for many years, bear cryptic remarks about all and sundry occupations, professions and traits. Whatever you do or don't do, there's a dirty dig for you

MY VALENTINE

Russell Patterson, cartoonist and illustrator, is nothing if he isn't modern. He "broadcasts" that he insists that his valentines be very "modern." In this sample below, Russell has done away with all the old familiar frills and lace which were always a part of the old type.

of the Methodist church was held in the home of Mrs. Cleaver Young, Thursday afternoon.

at the harness maker, the horseshoer, cent each.

Subjects Change. In bygone days gibes were pointed at the harness maker, the horseshoer, the hatter, the one-armed buggy driver, the man who drove his horses too fast and so on ad infinitum. Today, the verses run from the plumber to the radio fan with a radius that includes flirts, stenographers, egoists, obnoxious persons and automobile owners.

Below are produced three samples of the art thought up in the comic valentine factories and now offered for sale in East Liverpool stores:

The Dentist
"You ought to be a politician. For you have an awful pull. You empty your patient's pockets To keep your always full."

The Plumber
"You lazy, good-for-nothing loafer. Your boss should furnish you a sofa: The hardest job that you could take Would be to keep yourself awake."

The Stenographer
"You were not hired to decorate. The place with paint and come in late To earn your pay you would do better If you would learn to write a letter."

Remember when you chuckled in demurest glee to think how a verse of like ilk would "burn somebody up?" And then do you remember when that same "somebody" sent you a return valentine twice as pointed and by faster mail?

Useful to Hostesses. A use to which many East Liverpool party hostesses at this time of year put these is to order perhaps a hundred different kinds, cut them into puzzles, and then have the guests match them for places at the dinner table.

Pretty decorated valentines bearing verses betokening everlasting friendship who can't stand a good joke, but the "regular fellow" who receives one of these "slams" may be sure that he was on someone's mind at the time the purchase was made.

Crude, rude, snappy, and terribly caricatured, these little two-for-a-penny sheets of paper pack more wallop per line than any $1.50 "To My Sweetheart on Valentine's Day," bit of lace and ribbon ever did.

Captain Malcolm Campbell will make his next attempt for the world's auto speed record at Vredefort Park, about 450 miles from Cape Town, South Africa.

Revival.

Three large crowds attended the revival yesterday in the Church of the Nazarene, Washington street, at which the sermons were given by Evangelist Edward C. Oney, of Rush, Ky., and the Rev. B. H. Pocock, of Ellet, O., former pastor of the Nazarene church. The Rev. Mr. Oney preached in the morning and evening, while the Rev. Mr. Pocock spoke at the afternoon service. Singing was in charge of the Barnett Sisters of Akron, O.

The Rev. Mr. Oney's topic in the morning was "The Outcome of a Clean Heart." He said in part: A clean heart filled with the spirit makes the one receiving it an efficient soul winner. A clean heart creates a constancy of spirit. The danger of backsliding is greatly lessened. The up and down life settles down to a constant walk with God and unbroken fellowship with Him.

Urges Clean Heart. "A clean heart produces perfect peace. In the carnal heart there is continual warfare. The devil is de-throned from his seat and knows his defeat but is making a determined fight for supremacy. But in a clean

Stubborn Cough
Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu."

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Have you crowned Him with thorns or glory in your heart? Have you His blood under your feet or upon your heart?"

"What have I done with the warnings of Providence? Have the loss of loved ones, failure in business, narrow escapes, sickness and the like failed to turn your heart to God?"

"What have I done with the fact that the Holy Spirit has revealed weaknesses in my life? Have I disregarded them and tried to excuse myself by saying that these things are the common lot of all? Boy Scout Week

Attention to the significance of Boy Scout week, which will close on Valentine day, thus marking the nineteenth birthday of the movement in America, was directed Saturday when President-elect Herbert Hoover, the future commander-in-chief of the organization, became a "tenderfoot" scout. Forty-six troops of youngsters marched into Belle Isle, and paraded on the lawn for the benefit of Florida's distinguished visitor.

Anniversary week, which is being observed in East Liverpool and other Columbiana county cities, where the Boy Scouts have been active for several years, also marks the twenty-first year of the international movement which has given world-wide service under the leadership of Sir Robert Baden Powell, chief scout.

There are more than one million eight hundred thousand Boy Scouts in the world, with America setting the pace with an enrollment of more than eight hundred thousand.

The Boy Scout organization, which is in reality a brotherhood of boys, binding its members together by bonds of fellowship and consequently promotes a better understanding among nations, teaches courtesy, kindness, loyalty, helpfulness, obedience, cheerfulness, thrift, bravery, purity and reverence. And while it does not pretend to take the place of the home, church or school, it supplements their work.

The movement is deserving of support.

Why Radicalism Declines

Commenting a day or two ago on the vote received by each of the candidates for president at November election, attention was called to the exceeding smallness of the total of the votes received by the minority candidates compared with the total of all the votes cast, something like 500,000 out of 37,000,000. The opinion was expressed that there was little chance that this country might become another Russia so long as the ratio conservatives to radicals was so overwhelmingly great.

As a matter of fact, the gap is not decreasing. It is widening. The minority party vote was smaller last year than it has been at any presidential election since 1900. Take the Socialist vote by way of illustration. It can hardly be held that Norman Thomas was a weak candidate from a Socialist standpoint. Intellectually, he was easily the best candidate the Socialist party ever ran, and there can be no question of his commitment to the party cause. Yet we find him receiving the smallest vote given a candidate of his party in twenty-four years.

The trouble with the Socialist theory is that it will not work here in the United States. The worker here in America is not class conscious, as he is in Europe. Over there the worker never visions himself out of his class. He recognizes himself as a follower of this trade or that, as a member of this guild or that, and never thinks of himself as anything else. Over here the worker does not recognize any class distinctions. He doesn't look at himself as he is today, but sees himself as he may be ten, twenty or thirty years hence. He knows, from the experience of others, that the door of opportunity is open wide to him and that there is no insurmountable bar to his advancement, if he has the ability to advance. Hence it is that the Socialist theory doesn't strongly appeal to him.

And the reds suffer a similar handicap. The red idea is to dodge work and live off the labor of others. Too lazy to work, they seek to grasp the fruits of the labor of those who do. The lack of appeal of the red doctrine here is that there are in this country too many home-owners, too many holders of stocks and bonds, too many with savings and checking accounts, too many financially interested in industry and business, too many carrying insurance and too many anxious to advance beyond their fellow-men. All of these combine to form a mighty wall against the advance of communism and anarchy. They are not ready to surrender what they have, but they are at all times ready to protect their accumulations. And this is why socialism and communism are steadily losing out in the United States.

Most Widely Known Island

The most widely-known island in the world—certainly that in the United States and Europe—is Ellis Island in New York harbor. It consists of barely 21 acres. It contains no imposing monuments.

It boasts of no absorbing history; yet since 1890 there have come to know it in a very intimate way, no less than 18,000,000 people, that vast army from other lands that has sought entrance into the land of promise.

The time is not far gone since the finger of shame was pointed toward us because of the crowded condition of the place and the consequent inhuman treatment accorded the newly arrived people from across the sea. In 1907, the banner year, 1,123,842 immigrants passed through its gates.

For one hundred consecutive days of that year more than 5,000 people daily set foot upon it, crowding to the very doors the 27 buildings provided for their reception and temporary housing.

Today, the story is quite different. The World war started the decline and the quota law has maintained it, with the result that the island last year received but 294,088 persons. As a consequence, the nation today as a much larger plant than it can use.

What the future holds for the island we cannot say. There are those who wish that the bars were lowered and the old influx restored. There are plenty of others who insist that we are receiving quite enough now, perhaps more than we can assimilate.

It seems certain that the situation will remain much as it is and that Ellis Island will become a place of less importance, if indeed it does not bear a forlorn sign one of these days.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—Marked progress has been made during the last year in the establishment by the bureau of lighthouses of additional radio beacons. Nineteen new radio beacons have been placed and installation was begun on 12 more.

The radio beacon marks the greatest advance in aids to navigation since the invention of the mariners' compass. Although the term beacon is used, the radio beacon is in no sense a light. Rather it is a signal, transmitted by radio.

For centuries there have been lighthouses, the first famous one having been the Pharos at the harbor of Alexandria in Egypt. But their beams were useful only under favorable weather conditions. A fog would obscure them to such an extent that a ship might plunge on the rocks almost at the foot of the lighthouse. Later fog horns were invented and bells employed. But here again weather conditions limited their usefulness. Not yet has science satisfactorily solved some of the riddles connected with the transmission of sound from there warning agents.

It is certain that the sound continues to travel or otherwise it would not be again heard beyond the blank space. But what becomes of it in the meantime? It certainly does not cease. There is a theory that because of some unanalyzed atmospheric condition it rises to a great height, perhaps many thousands of feet, and then, due to some new pressure, descends again to the level of the water. Another theory is that the sound waves under the water and travels along the bottom of the sea for a mile or so and then emerges into the air. It is a well established physical fact that water is a better conductor of sound than air.

The radio beacon does away with this uncertainty. The signals sent out penetrate wind and fog and are practically the same under all weather conditions. The radio beacon consists of a radio transmitter. Most of the 55 now in use are operated only in foggy weather but a few operate continuously. No labor is required. The keeper of the light merely turns on the instrument and it automatically sends out its signal until turned off again. Of course batteries have to be replaced from time to time. Each lighthouse or lightship equipped with a radio beacon has its separate, distinctive code signal. This is steadily repeated over and over again.

The first radio beacons were installed outside New York harbor in 1921. They proved successful and were extended to the very foggy waters off the Massachusetts and Rhode Island coasts where ship traffic is especially heavy. Now there are 55 and installations are constantly going on. The bureau of lighthouses feels that the safety of navigation has been greatly augmented by the device. It is regarded as capable of widely extended improvement.

The bureau of lighthouses has been busy as usual during the last year. A primary light and fog signal station was constructed on the dangerous Lausling Shoal in Lake Michigan, replacing an old lightship. On Poe Reef in Lake Michigan a similar project is under construction. Other projects either were completed or were under construction during the year at Martin Reef, Lake Michigan; Milwaukee Harbor; Delaware Bay entrance; Pooles Island Bar in Chesapeake Bay; Michigan Island in Lake Michigan; Muskegon South Breakwater, Lake Michigan; Grays Harbor, Washington; Wrangell Narrows, Alaska; Sandusky Harbor, Lake Erie; Southwest Pass, La.; and in Samoa in the mid-Pacific.

The bureau of lighthouses, for the first time in history, has extended its activities inland. When President-elect Hoover was secretary of commerce he was much interested in the development of aviation. The bureau of lighthouses being one of the bureaus of Mr. Hoover's department, he had that agency extend its illuminating work to the airways, in aid of navigation of the air by night. During the last year the bureau has lighted 2,450 miles of airways by establishing 520 beacons. This brings the total of lighted mileage to 5,877 and the work continues.

The American bureau of lighthouses takes a very high rank among similar organizations of the world. During the last year lighthouse officials of the French, German, Netherlands and Canadian governments visited this country to confer with our lighthouse officials on many technical matters relating to the profession.

Foreign nations, notably England, have begun to take up the radio beacon to a limited extent but the United States is the pioneer in such installations and now has more radio beacons than all other nations of the world put together.

Q. How many film stars are there? M. S.
A. The changes in production make it impossible to say exactly how many actors are employed by the various companies at one time. Generally speaking, there are about three hundred major actors, of which about seventy are stars. There are probably one thousand actors who receive screen credit, that is they have their names in the cast. Eleven thousand extras are registered at the Central Casting Office although only about 750 requests for extras are received daily.

Q. When was music introduced into the public schools? P. D.
A. The Etude says that it was introduced in 1838, at Boston, by Lowell Mason.

Q. How many cooperative associations of cotton growers are there? A. M.
A. There are fifteen associations with nearly 300,000 members.

Q. How old do grapevines grow? D. W.
A. The Trinity Vine at San Gabriel, California, was planted by the Franciscan Fathers and is supposed to be about 150 years old. The famous hothouse vine at Hampton Court Palace in England is 160 years old and in excellent condition. It has produced as many as 2,200 bunches of Black Hamburg grapes in one year. The greatest girth of this vine is 78 inches.

Q. Why are extension courses not given over the radio? T. B. R.
A. There have been a number of experiments in radio teaching and the National Broadcasting Company has named an advisory council of prominent business men and educators to formulate plans for a radio university.

Q. Is it better to have an alto or tenor saxophone? R. N.
A. Both are fine instruments, but there are more demands for musicians with alto instruments since small orchestras use the alto.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

MONTE CARLO, Feb. 11.—Morning on the sun-dappled Terrace of Monte Carlo with the trembling tinted blue of the Mediterranean in the offing has the giddy headiness of a before breakfast cocktail. The French express the idea with their "Oo, la, la!" The most sedate turn pagan to whoop and dance over life.

The mood is playful; indeed kittenish. Sitting at an outdoor table this morning a voice behind me cried: "Hands Up!" After making a sheepish movement with my hands, which quickly changed to a fevered smoothing of my hair, I turned to see a dignified gentleman who was a fellow passenger crossing from America.

He was not only aloof aboard ship, but in the compartment we occupied on the way to Paris. Yet at Monte Carlo he had become a jocular backslapper, calling me by name and inviting me to join him in a snifter. I merely uncorked my nastiest frown and let him have it clear up to here. I prefer a high hat to a back slap anyway.

This same climatic and scenic wall-off offsets the depression of heavy losses at the gaming table here. People lose staggering sums and still feel exhilarated. But Monte Carlo's glitter reminds me of the phosphorescent glow of a beautiful and rotting fish. The veins of Monaco run cold with ice water.

Dotted various tables were Elsie Janis and her mother, Alistair MacIntosh, Maybelle Corey Gilman, Fritz Kreisler and, of course, that ever present delineator of international intrigue E. Phillips Oppenheim, the novelist. It is the strangely season on the French Riviera but colorful just the same.

At luncheon I met Monsieur Chlappe, the energetic and spectacular Prefect of Police of Paris—incognito for a day's relief from crook hunting. He is a Corsican, an idealist and a determined protector of middle classes. Just now he is warring on peep show gilders and gigolos of Paris. He suggests the cricket.

Monte Carlo continues to wax expensive. There is a Palm Beach tilt to cafe and hotel tariffs. Various cocktails have advanced one franc fifty over last year. The head porter at the Hotel de Paris explained it frankly with: "We want to make it impossible for all save the very rich." And I didn't care for the sharp look he gave me and my dog.

An American lady stepped from a motor at her Monte Carlo hotel this afternoon in semi hysterics. She had been driving along the famous Corniche road and alighted for a closer view of a peaceful little lake a short distance away. Accompanying her was a faithful and valuable Scotch terrier. She tossed a stick into the water for the dog to retrieve and was horrified to see a swan glide up, clutch the animal in its talons and hold it under water until it drowned. She learned from a game keeper this was the fate of almost every dog that approached swans in water. Add permanent dislikes—swans.

Monte Carlo's dream of gold is an invincible distraction, but there are other pleasant diversions. Such as fishing, trap shooting, horse-back riding, motoring, tennis, golf and listening to those people at adjoining tables who try to create a worldliness for your benefit. The ordinary fiber becomes a grandiose liar at Monte Carlo. I have spoken twice carelessly of an imaginary yacht. But 99 percent of the visitors come here solely to—business of coining an original phrase—woo the goddess of chance. They seem to be straining, like hounds on leashes, until the casinos are thrown open for the day.

There is nothing, despite his suave and imperturbable manner, quite so pathetic to me as a gambling casino crookier. His employers make distrust of him so humiliatingly obvious, every nocket in his evening clothes is tightly sewed up with thread that is plainly discernable. After he finishes for the day, he must strip and walk through an alley of inspectors to reach his gilded home attire. He has no chance to steal and is paid a miserable wage. But he does see life!

Monte Carlo is stimulating and one is clutched by its beauty for a day, but unless one is thrilled by gambling it seems long enough. It is no place for a boob. Intervenor in its great splendor are sordid splashes of ugliness and despairing misery. Last night, for instance, all Monte Carlo knows there were two attempts—one successful—at suicide over gaming losses. But the rest of the world will never know it. And one cannot forget those ancient croons with clawlike fingers who sit at small play tables, gulping fiery brandy to sustain their courage. What a terrible old age!

Other Editors Say

Japan's Enduring Grievance.

For practically the fifth year in succession the Japanese government has taken occasion to remind the United States that the American immigration law of 1924 still ranks in Nippon's breast. Addressing the diet at Tokio, Baron Tanaka, in the dual capacity of premier and foreign minister, included in the annual review of the international situation the now familiar viewpoint of his government and people.

After alluding to "the ever-strengthening bond of economic and political friendship" with the United States, Baron Tanaka said: "But I wish to add that the matter of immigration law, which has been pending for the last few years, has not yet been composed. A satisfactory solution of a problem like this must, after all, depend upon mutual good understanding which, I am fully confident, is growing year after year."

It would be difficult to conceive of a more statesmanlike utterance. It is dignified. It is restrained. It breathes a quiet, but unmistakable determination one day to see righted what the Japanese look upon as a wrong. But it is conspicuously devoid of saber rattling. It is couched in terms designed to appeal to the American sense of justice.

In the day immediately following enactment by congress of the so-called exclusion act of 1924, Japanese national pride was wounded to a degree which visibly belittled the international horizon. War, sooner or later, was the recourse to which, many thought, the proud, militant empire of the east might resort, to avenge the injustice of which Japanese held themselves to be a victim at our hands. That dread prospect, happily, is definitely banished.

It might be recalled that both President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes advised congress in vain to permit the state department to negotiate another immigration agreement with Japan. But there ensued an indirect passage in Ambassador Hanihara's letter to Mr. Hughes, which Mr. Lodge and other senate leaders interpreted as a threat, and the exclusion provision thereforward was assured of adoption.

Japan does not seek to have the bars of restrictive immigration let down in the United States. Probably she would be satisfied with quota status, which would admit, it has been estimated, fewer than 200 of her people a year. What Nippon does crave is some action by the United States which will remove from her citizens the ignominious stigma of being classed as undesirable, fifth-class immigrants.

SCHOOL CHIEF LAUDS LINCOLN FOR REVERENCE

Church.

PATRIOTIC MEET

Emancipator Great in Tolerance, Truth
And Mercy.

Reverence as an outstanding quality possessed by Abraham Lincoln was stressed by C. S. McVay, superintendent of East Liverpool schools, at the First Baptist church, last night, where he substituted for the Rev. A. H. O'Brien. The latter had charge of the preliminary services and introduced the educator.

Lincoln's reverence for individuals, the constitution and the Bible were in turn discussed by McVay.

He quoted Miss Ida Tarbell on the emancipator. "Miss Tarbell has written one of the most significant of all the many biographies published of Abraham Lincoln," he said. "Of him she said: 'He was great in his tolerance, truth, charity, mercy, belief in God above man and the brotherhood of man. He questioned everything until he knew all about it. He had the background of six generations of pioneers.'"

He alluded at length to Lincoln's reverence of his mother and step-mother. He contrasted him with Aaron Burr. "Burr with all of his brilliancy of mind lacked the one quality of reverence which stood out in Lincoln," he averred.

Lincoln on Constitution. Lincoln's view of the constitution was quoted from a speech made by him in congress on June 23, 1840, when he was discussing a bill on internal improvement. He then digressed momentarily to allude to the constitution. Quoting Lincoln, he said: "As a general rule I would say let it alone. No slight occasion should cause us to yield to the temptation to touch it. We had better not take the first step to do so and thus avoid the habit of altering it. We had better habituate ourselves to think of it as unalterable. It can scarcely be made better than it is. New improvements will be but introducing new difficulties and thus increase the opportunities for changes in it. Let it stand as it is. New hands have never touched it. The men who made it have done their work and passed on. Who can improve on what they did?"

McVay illustrated Lincoln's reverence for the Bible by quoting from the Emancipator's speech to a body of colored men on the occasion of their presenting to him a copy of the Holy Scriptures on Sept. 7, 1864. To them he said: "In regard to this gift I have but this to say: It is the greatest gift of God to man. All the good the Saviour gave to the world was communicated by this book. But for it we would not know the difference between right and wrong. All things most desired here and in the hereafter are found portrayed in it."

Lincoln's Belief in Prayer. Later McVay recounted the incident of the visit of Joshua Speed to the White House where he found President Lincoln engaged in reading the Bible.

"You appear to be profitably engaged," Mr. Speed said to the chief executive of the nation. "Yes, profoundly engaged," was the reply.

Then: "If you will take all you can of the Bible by reason and the rest by faith you will live and die a happy man."

In conclusion, McVay told of the concern in the north everywhere as the battle of Gettysburg was being fought.

"All sensed it was the turning point of the great struggle between the states. Many felt the union was lost. Lincoln appeared calm throughout it all and continued unperturbed his daily tasks. 'Are you not afraid of the outcome?' someone finally asked him. 'No, I am not uneasy. We shall win. I have prayed,' was the reply."

Mrs. Stanley Montgomery, Midland Avenue, has resumed his studies in the Midland schools after several weeks' illness.

Miss Dorothea High, East Park place, accompanied by Miss Mary Louise Rose, of Beaver, and Glenn Roades and Percy Grocott of Beaver Falls, attended the Geneva-Grove City basketball game at Beaver Falls Saturday.

12 CONVERTED AS NAZARENE REVIVAL ENDS

Three Sermons are Delivered by Rev. J. H. Huff.

GOES TO PALMYRA

Evangelist Expresses Willingness to Return to Chester.

With the delivery of three sermons the revival services at the Nazarene church in Chester was closed last night by the visiting evangelist, the Rev. J. H. Huff, of Olivet, Ill.

The event was extended a week by reason of the interest taken in it. All of the churches in the city received so benefit from it.

There were 12 converts yesterday, making the revival total 66. There were seven accessions to the church yesterday with others to follow later.

In addition to the Rev. Mr. Huff, the evangelistic party consisted of R. T. Eby, musical director and soloist, and Miss Opal Huff, his daughter who was the accompanist. They left today for Palmyra, near Harrisburg, Pa., where on Tuesday night they will begin another campaign.

Eby Sings Solos. The Rev. Mr. Huff expressed gratification at his Chester stay, thanked all for their kindness and averred his willingness, on seeing so many upraised hands asking that he might do so, to return to the city at some future time.

Mr. Eby sang "The Ninety and Nine" last night and "O Make Me Clean" in the afternoon.

The invocation was made by the Rev. James Ward, pastor of the church, last night.

"The Missing Man" was the theme of Rev. Mr. Huff in his final sermon last night. He so dubbed the disciple Thomas for his initial absence during the appearances of Christ following the resurrection. "It was Thomas' last chance to see the Master and his Lord on the occasion that he finally did," he observed. "And it is the final opportunity for many of you to listen to the gospel tonight."

Afternoon Sermon. God's Identification Marks" was his subject in the afternoon.

He spoke of the "Joy of Obedience" in the morning when, quoting Hosea, the prophet, he stressed the concern of the Almighty then for Israel. "And that concern is not mitigated in this modern day," he said. "It is the same for the lost of the world today and ever will be. For His character, since

COVETOUSNESS IS SCORED BY REV. R. M. DAVIS

Ranks With Murder As Real Sin, He Says.

CHESTER SERMON

"Stewards of Wealth" Topic Next Sunday Night.

"The sin we are afraid to mention is covetousness," said the Rev. Ray M. Davis, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, Chester, yesterday morning. "And covetousness is the inordinate love of money. It is classed as among the gravest of sins in Holy Writ and ranked with idolatry, the departing from faith, stealing, murder, domestic trouble and others."

"Covetousness is a real sin. The scriptures abound in examples of its devastating qualities. It was the first sin to harass the children of Israel following their entrance into the land of Canaan after their long trek in the wilderness; it was the same fault that moved Achan after the fall of Jericho to confiscate goods that caused his and others' summary punishment; Gehazi, the servant of Elisha, fell when afflicted by it when he ran after Naaman and had him give him some money and clothing ostensibly for the prophet, causing him ultimately to be afflicted with the dread disease from which the Syrian leader had just been cured."

"It was covetousness that moved Ananias and Sapphira, during the days of the early church, to hold back some of the money in a sale of land which proved their end. And covetousness moved Judas to betray Christ."

"Kidnaping, murder, divorce, robbery, gambling, bad investments and other crimes of the present day have their inception largely in a covetous state of mind."

"Covetousness has become a cancer on the whole fabric of society. It is a sin particularly prevalent in the church; none is condemned more in the scriptures."

"It is not a sin to be rich. And the poor are often more covetous than the wealthy. It can be eradicated only by individuals getting right with God so that the finger of scorn cannot be pointed at them by the world."

The other side of covetousness will be discussed next Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Davis when he speaks on the theme, "The Stewards of Wealth."

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters

Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

PLAN BENEFIT LINCOLN DAY BANQUET HERE

Logan Cabin Quartet
At First M. E.
Church.

TUESDAY NIGHT

Dr. H. S. Powell Speaks
Sunday on Mission
Schools.

Birthday of Abraham Lincoln will be celebrated with a banquet in the First Methodist Episcopal church at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Proceeds will go toward mission schools, which are being maintained by the church in Kentucky, Tennessee and other mountainous states of the south.

Music will be in charge of the Colored Log Cabin quartet of Wellsville. A program of readings and speaking will follow. The banquet will be in charge of W. T. McNutt, W. O. Bloor and Fred McGilvray.

Work of the Methodist missionaries in the south was discussed by the Rev. H. S. Powell, D. D., Steubenville district superintendent, at the First church yesterday morning. His address, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," was a tribute to the "great emancipator," whose ancestors came from the southern mountains.

Tells of Visit to Mountains. The Rev. Dr. Powell told of a visit last fall to the Cumberland mountains with the other district superintendents of the Cincinnati area, headed by Bishop Theodore Henderson, of Cincinnati. He said that with Dr. Earl R. Stutz, of Cambridge, who just recently succumbed to an attack of illness in Columbus, Ohio, and Dr. Isaac Wood, former East Liverpool pastor, the three were companions on much of the journey to and from their objectives in the southland.

He explained that all of this particular work was being done by the Cincinnati area of Methodist alone. He also recounted details of a feud in which one of the leaders, "Bill" Henderson, though not related to the bishop, had been seriously wounded by Johnson Maden. Carried on a litter to a hospital in a nearby town he finally recovered and, following his conversion, wrote a letter to his antagonist, forgiving him. The latter made no reply. Later the Rev. Mr. Breaks, who is in charge of the religious activities in the section, went to Mr. Maden and explained that he in turn must forgive Mr. Henderson. Assured he would not be shot he, leaving his gun at home, led the way to Henderson's home. He found him selling corn.

Call Off Old Feud. "Howdy, Bill," offered the man who had once shot at him to kill. "Bill hesitated a moment," the Rev. Dr. Powell quoted the Rev. Mr. Breaks.

Then he reached out his hand. The men clasped. They sat down. And both started to shell corn. "When they began to shell corn together I knew, though once they had shot it out with each other, they were friends for life, the Rev. Mr. Breaks told the Rev. Dr. Powell.

"And as a culmination of the incident a short time thereafter the daughter of Bill Henderson went to the Maden home to care for the sick wife of the man who had once shot her father."

"Without the reconciliation brought about by the gospel of Jesus Christ simply preached to them this girl would have forfeited her life to have even come near the Maden cabin in previously," the Rev. Dr. Powell commented.

Free Methodist Church. Continuing his series of sermons on the proverb: "He that Winneth Souls is Wise," the Rev. S. E. West, pastor, spoke twice at the revival of the Free Methodist church on Avondale street yesterday. "The Honor of Being a Soul Winner" was the evening subject and "The Qualifications of Soul Winner" that in the morning.

On Saturday night Sarah Rood, a 12-year-old girl, of Wellsville, spoke for more than one-half hour on "Repentance." She was well received and spoke well for one of her age.

LAUDS LINCOLN

C. S. McVay.

"All doing so should count it an honor to serve such a Master in the service of winning souls." The Rev. Mr. West declared in the evening. "For his yoke is easy and his burden light and He furnishes grace and strength to those who obey His will."

"And the honor of associating with the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, the angels and holy men on the earth in such a work should stand out. To be co-laborers in such a departure will ever be an honor."

"The very nature of the work also is honorable as lives there by are elevated. Sensible people will ever hold it an honor to bring souls to God. And the work will be an honor by the spirit development of our natures."

He said that the qualifications of a soul winner included being a student, thus applying oneself to know the Bible; the knowledge of human nature for one must not only know the tools to be used, but the nature under which they work."

"Healing Before the Days of Christ," will be the Rev. Mr. West's sermon topic tonight.

Second Baptist Church.

"The Advantage of Battle" was the subject of the Rev. J. W. Whitfield, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Baptist church last evening. "Christians should fight for the principles for which the church was designed," declared the Rev. Mr. Whitfield, who came to East Liverpool last October following an education culminating in the Baptist Theological seminary at Nashville, Tenn., of which state he is a native. He described the allegiance of the residents of Ephesus to their Goddess Diana and the money derived by silvermiths in articles sold in worship there to.

"Now, as then, there are many church people who make money with equal lack of Christian license. Persons there are in congregations who own property which they rent for activities inimical to the spirit of Christianity; others will operate such places. Many, unthinkingly or unwittingly, will by membership in bodies aid in bulwarking them financially so that those who do not care what they do on that day will lacerate and make unholy the observance of Sunday. Many such organizations could not function without the memberships of these men and women who themselves will not openly defile the day as do others."

"Men there are in church who sit in Moses' seat but who because of their idleness are unworthy to do so. Paul elected to tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost. And tarrying, he took advantage of the opportunity to fight a battle in behalf of righteousness. It is ours as Christians to do likewise. The church should fight for the principles it designed."

Sermon on "Home."

Holding motherhood to be the greatest career possible for women Dr. Warren O. Hawkins, First Methodist church pastor, placed a halo upon mothers in another of a series of sermons on "The Home" last evening and declared children to be the outstanding guarantee against selfishness.

"The destiny of civilization rests upon the home," he said. "And the blessing of little children in homes keeps them right with God. It has been said that to add a house to a community you add a soul. And when

NEW YORK Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor hears that science making man live longer, will produce too many old men and women in need of charity.

The association need not worry. The science that makes men live longer, will increase wealth sufficiently to take care, one thousand times over, of the extra old man or woman.

COMMON sense, decency and law should see to it that wealth does take care of them.

Also science will find ways to make old age independent of its most dreaded danger, which is cold charity.

IT IS suggested that Louis the Sixteenth, beheaded in the French revolution, be canonized a saint, on the ground that he sacrificed his life rather than forsake his religion.

THE fact is that the sluggish king ran away, but ran too late, was caught, brought back, locked up and guillotined. However he was an amiable man unhappily married. And amiable men, unfortunately married, are often saints without getting credit for it.

AS his head fell under the guillotine knife, the courageous priest attending him, at great risk to himself, comforted the hated king, and is supposed to have said at the last moment, "Son, of Saint Louis, ascend to Heaven," referring to Louis' predecessor, the good king Saint Louis, who, as he lay dying ordered himself moved from his bed and laid upon a bed of ashes to indicate humility.

TURKEY needs airplanes and being intelligent means to have them.

The money is to be obtained by exhibiting fighting camels. Eight camels will fight, in a free for all, each fighting camel putting his hump under another, and throwing him over backward, seeking to break his back.

The male fighting camel will be infuriated by the presence of a female camel, withdrawn from the ring as the fighting starts.

You can write your own sermon on that exhibition.

DEATH ROLL

Simmons Funeral

Funeral services for John Eugene, 3-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Simmons, Harrison street, Newell, W. Va., were held this afternoon in the Newell Nazarene church, in charge of the Rev. F. F. Freese. Burial was made in Locust Hill cemetery.

you add a child to a family you add a home.

"Children do not impoverish people; they rather add to their wealth. Not even an actress receiving plaudits at the height of her success has a thrill comparable with a mother catching for the first time the breath of her new born child by her side. To co-operate with God in the creation and the rearing of a child for God and country is work transcending all others."

"I can not tell what a home without a mother would be for I have never lived in one without a mother."

"It has been discovered in the last ten years that the greatest avenue for evangelism lies among young fathers and mothers."

"Lincoln, the Man." "The demand of the hour is for trained men and women" asserted the Rev. R. N. Ball, pastor of the Anderson Methodist Episcopal church, yesterday morning, when discussing "Lincoln, the Man." Ours is the hour of specialization. We must not only 'know' at but 'know how' to do one thing better than all else.

"All education is not procured in college and seminary. The college only trains the mind so that one can become educated as he gropes with the things of every day life daily."

"Lincoln, in direct distinction to college training, adapted himself to the things he had to do in life. He grew as he touched them. The kind of spirit that was his was discernible in his emancipation of slaves. The Negro when trained is not more inclined to crime than is the white man. He is not asking social sameness, but social equality. He is not after the things of the white man, but those that are as good as that which the white man possesses in his mental and moral life."

"The Negro is loyal to the things he loves. He is never disloyal to the flag and will follow it without a question as to who made it."

Vatican, Italy Pact

fering from a cold and fears had been felt on Sunday that his indisposition might interfere with the scheduled signing today, but the apprehensions proved groundless.

In addition to Premier Mussolini and Minister of Justice Rocco, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs Dino Grandi was in the little group representing the Italian state.

There were no special ceremonies. The agreements comprising the treaty were read by Signor Pacelli, the advocate, who, during the later stages of the negotiations, acted as mediator between the Vatican and the Italian government.

Disposing of reports that the Vatican would join the League of Nations and participate in international conferences, it was learned that the treaty stipulates that "the Vatican will remain extraneous from all temporal competition with other states, unless contending parties appeal to the Vatican to exercise its moral and spiritual aid."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—After an irregular opening, in which prices of the industrial favorites spread from a 9-point loss to a 2-point gain, the stock market attempted a moderate rally this morning.

Sandwiched in between a double and a single holiday, with an 8 per cent renewal call rate to start the week, and a special meeting of the reserve bank heads called to consider problems after the close of the market, it was hardly a day to attract very much outside buying of speculative stocks.

News of the formation of powerful bull pools and cliques to "support the market" until it was possible to see daylight through the whole banking-credit situation helped to hold matters in check. There was no evidence of stocks being dumped on the market. Sales in the first half-hour were only $59,000, and eleven o'clock prices showed recoveries of from 2 to 10 points in the market leaders.

Gold sold at 362, against last Friday's close at 352. General Electric was up 3 points at 236; Studebaker up 2; U. S. Steel up 1 1/2; American Can up 1; Anaconda Copper up 2 1/2; Westinghouse up 2 1/2; New York Central up 2. The 8 per cent money rate was a disappointment to the bulls, but the money market on an unsettled day preceding a holiday is an uncertain quantity and Wall Street heard that the European lenders were calling their money home.

Plans Art School

While he was in school here Pon took painting lessons from Mrs. Ernest Simpson and spent two summers in the Cleveland School of Art where he studied painting.

Completing his elementary school course Pon returned to China, where his mother, three sisters and one brother live. Because of his knowledge of the English language Pon was often called upon to translate letters and other matters printed in English. While the English language was taught in the school, Pon, because of the five years which he spent in America, was far ahead of his classmates in his subject. At the end of two years he had completed the three-year course offered by the school.

Revolution broke out in China while Pon was in school and during the uprising he made speeches in behalf of the Nationalists, which party came into power at the close of the civil war.

Pon came back to the United States in November, 1927, and last summer continued his studies at the Cleveland School of Art. His father, who is in poor health in China, plans to return to the United States this summer, but until then Pon will remain with his uncle, Yee John, assisting him in the St. Clair avenue laundry.

Father in Tea Business. Pon's father conducts a tea and silk business in Canton, the store being managed by his mother while her husband is absent. The father operated a tea business in San Francisco for many years, losing everything in the 1907 earthquake.

When Pon came to the United States, he expressed a desire to live in a small place rather than a large city and for that reason they came to East Liverpool.

"I like East Liverpool," said Pon. "I know many people here and it's like home to me."

Pon has accepted the Christian faith since coming here. He attended the First Methodist Protestant church and was a member of the Sunday school class taught by Mrs. Clyde Todd for several years.

Exhibits His Paintings. He said that as the result of the work of missionaries much of Canton's population has accepted Christianity. The father-in-law of one of his sisters, Pon says, is a Christian minister.

Pon's aim in life is to become a painter. He has painted a number of landscapes, one of which he sold in Cleveland for $60. Several of his paintings were entered in art exhibits in China.

Although his father is a citizen of the United States Pon is an alien, having been born in China. He plans to seek his naturalization papers before he returns to China to open his art school.

Pon's mother, two sisters and a younger brother have never visited the United States. His mother prefers to remain in Canton where she looks after the business owned by his father.

The young man is interested in the future of the country which gave him his birth. Rich in natural resources, he believes China is on the verge of a great development.

Columbus Woman Is Auto Victim. SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 11.—Having suffered fatal injuries when the automobile in which she was riding struck a culvert on a highway west of here, funeral arrangements were being made for Mrs. Carrie Anderson Harkader, of Columbus, today.

Pottery City

With Apologies to O. O. McIntyre

Thoughts while wandering about the town: The Crookery City Ice and Products building is one of the highest structures in the city but does not seem so by reason of its being erected in a lower section than some in the Diamond hill section. . . . With val will there be some who will not get even one? . . . How much larger and with how many additional stories are buses to become? . . . Many people in East Liverpool never saw a team of oxen drawing a wagon. And there used to be huge wagons with brakes attached to the rear at which drivers, walking behind, would pull as the vehicle descended steep inclines. . . . A penny for Coolidge's thoughts in his final days in the White House and those of Hoover as he is rapidly cutting his private citizenship. . . . It should not be long until the sugar sap should be running from some trees. . . . A man must have a real sense of music to choose "Under the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" for his favorite song. . . . How many pancakes made full skillet size could one eat after walking to Calcutta and back? . . . Persons flying over East Liverpool by night ought to recognize a city under them by lights studding these hillsides. . . . And there should be a flood in the river any time from now on. . . . Always seems as if some record of East Liverpool streets is being opened for some purpose or another. . . . No matter what the time of day or night there is some one waiting for a street car in the Diamond. . . . How many different times have the interiors and entrances of East Liverpool business houses been changed? . . . Is there an article on a local haunts shelf that has remained unsold for more than five years?

One East Liverpool business man is certain that spring is imminent. He is not asking his deductions from any observations about the groundhog. But nightly since the first of the year when it was possible to do so he has watched the sun setting from his office window in the Little building. He discovered it initially behind a flag pole on an adjacent building. By now it has moved far westward from the pole. And so he feels that in the nature of things terrestrial it will not be long until the frogs will croak a nocturnal symphony and he himself will proceed to hang a few screen doors to his domicile.

The bit of snow remaining these days on the hillsides makes admirable the opportunity of men and boys to try out young dogs with rabbit hunting potentialities. Almost in any direction from the city during afternoons and the late evenings persons with promising canines are being given kindergarten training in recognizing the cotton-tails whereabouts about. . . . And the first one of these owners is yet to be met with a pessimistic report about the prowess of the dog attached to his chain or rope. The enthusiastic reports from many seem to indicate there will be few rabbits left when the time comes to unleash the animals they are so proudly leading homeward.

Men, with their wives, come to East Liverpool, and remain several days or weeks show a frequent reluctance at leaving, asserted a restaurant man the other day. They come here to eat regularly. They get to know those who wait upon them though none ask each other's names. When the time comes to leave they come to the desk to say goodbye and often to aver they never expect to come back to East Liverpool. But they express thanks for the treatment accorded them and, "like ships that pass in the night and speak to each other in passing," silently go on their way doubtless to repeat their experience elsewhere.

"What East Liverpool needs is paint," declared a former resident who came back to the city some months ago following a long stay elsewhere, part of the time being on the Pacific coast. "The old town looks much the same," he commented, "but after being in other places the thought that wells up in me as I look around is the need of paint almost everywhere."

Until the advent of wintry weather, one of the features of the freight shipments on the Pennsylvania railroad was the transformation from the west of entire trains of cattle. Some of these were almost a mile in length. Standing alongside the track at night it was possible by the strongly emanating scent therefrom to detect whether a car passing contained pigs, sheep or calves.

The government tells you to "join the Marines and see the world. Paraphrasing that famous slogan, Wallace L. Fogo, mayor of Wellsville, who, however, is not a "citizen" of East Liverpool for the last five weeks as a result of an accident which sent him to the City hospital here, says, "Break a leg and see your friends."

Visits to the mayor's room—No. 201—today had reached the astounding figure of more than 925 in the five weeks that he has been bedfast. While a number of the chief executive's visitors have gone back a number of times, there's hardly any doubt that he can lay claim to a hospital record when he leaves.

The patient keeps a daily diary, jotting down the names of visitors. As high as 75 persons in a day have called to see him.

Even though it's over a week late for groundhog discussion, it might not be amiss, for the benefit of those who are already fed up on winter weather, to announce the encouraging news that there's one groundhog at least which didn't bother about shadows and such things. He belongs to Roy Walker, Persimmon and Drury lanes. He lives in a small store box bungalow in the cellar of the Walker home and appears to like the bill of fare and the accommodations. The rascal was up and around long before his kin in other places last Saturday.

LINDBERGH HOPS OVER GUATEMALA

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Belize, British Honduras, at 11:50 a. m. from Managua, Nicaragua, according to word received here by the Tropical Radio station.

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, flying the first air mail to the United States from the Panama Canal zone, passed over Berrion, Guatemala, at 10:20 a. m. eastern standard time today, according to information received here by the tropical radio station.

Col. Lindbergh had somewhat altered his plans and instead of being enroute to Tela, Honduras, was enroute for Belize, British Honduras, it was learned.

Colonel Lindbergh left Managua, Nicaragua, at 7:20 eastern standard time, this morning.

GOES TO ALTAR, FALLS IN COMA

LANCASTER, O., Feb. 11.—Ethel Francis, 17, high school student, who became unconscious at the altar of the Church of Christ in Christian union, entered upon her fifth day of what physicians have described as a "person asleep" in city hospital here today.

Going forward to the altar last Thursday night when the Rev. J. G. Laveck asked for converts, Miss Francis became ill as she stood with others before the minister and repeated after him a Psalm.

Taken from the church to her home, three physicians were unable to arouse her. She was removed to the hospital where another attempt to revive her was futile last night.

Since falling into the strange coma not a word has come from her lips. Her eyes remain closed. The pulse, hospital attendants said, is normal.

MOTORIST FACES LISBON CHARGE

LISBON, O., Feb. 11.—On information filed by James Wathy, Wellsville, Charles Stanger, Alliance motorist, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James F. Elliott, last night, upon a charge of reckless driving.

Stanger posted $25 for his appearance before Mayor Robert B. Clark, Lisbon. Wathy was also required to post $10 bond for his appearance as a witness.

Home Raided, Owner Flees From Sheriff

Mike Fusco Sought by Police After Sheriff's Party Makes Salineville Clean-up; Two Others are Arrested.

WELLSVILLE, O., Feb. 11.—Wellsville police today continued search for Mike Fusco, Salineville man and former Wellsville resident, who escaped in an automobile Saturday afternoon after John Strabley, Salineville marshal, Sheriff William J. Barlow and four deputies had raided his home, 93 East Main street.

Marshall Strabley, Sheriff Barlow and Deputies Lewis Eells, Harroff and Elliott seized liquor and beer, it is said, at the Fusco place; a pint of whiskey at John Roberts', in East Water street, and Marshall Strabley yesterday made the third arrest in the clean-up launched by the county officials when he arrested Jay Johns at the Roberts home.

All were charged with possession. The raiding party first visited the Fusco home. Fusco's car was outside. While the county officials were in the home, Fusco slipped unobserved out of another door, jumped into his machine and was gone before the authorities could stop him.

Sheriff Barlow immediately telephoned Wellsville police and the latter placed a guard on the Salineville-Wellsville road but Fusco did not appear and was still missing this morning. The sheriff and his aides found a pint of liquor, it is said, in Roberts' clothing.

Roberts was given a hearing before Mayor Cameron and pleaded guilty to possession. He was fined $300 and costs and given six months in the county jail.

Roberts was left in Marshall Strabley's custody Saturday night. Sunday, Strabley, in charge of the prisoner, started for Lisbon. Roberts requested the officer for permission to stop at his home to get some clothing.

To this Strabley acceded. Entering the Roberts' home he declared he found a man by the name of Jay Johns there, and also a quantity of liquor. Strabley arrested Johns and the latter was arraigned before Mayor Cameron on a charge of possession. Johns, however, pleaded not guilty. No date was set for the hearing.

The pastor spoke last night from First Thessalonians, 1-2, on the subject, "Gospel Trusteeship."

He pointed out that gospel trusteeship responsibilities come to all of God's children and to become wilfully neglectful or disobedient will imperil not only souls of individuals but also will involve the alienation of mankind through the extent of this delinquency.

Four more members were received in the church Sunday, or 16 memberships in all during the two weeks.

ROCKEFELLER CLAIMS VICTORY

What Julius Rosenwald, right, of Chicago, had to do with the victory which John D. Rockefeller, below, claims in his battle of proxies for control of the Standard Oil of Indiana, is problematical. The efforts of Rockefeller to obtain control were actuated by his desire to oust Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors, who flaunted the financier's wishes in regard to testimony, before the senate committee during the oil scandal investigations. The Chicago financier had only recently sided with Rockefeller.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am 18 years of age and in my third year of high school. Last year I met a young man two years my senior. He came to see me almost every night and loved me. Later we became engaged in secret, and planned to be married in a few years. Lately he hasn't been coming to see me. At first he told me he was ill and I believed it. One night I went to a dance and saw him with another girl, and have seen him with her several times since. My parents like him very much. Should I give his gifts back?

John Strabley was a business visitor in Lisbon Saturday.

I love him more than words can express. Please advise me what to do.

DREAM GIRL.

DREAM GIRL: I should tell my parents, were I in your place, of how things stood between you and the young man. You see now, my dear, why I constantly advise against secret engagements. They inevitably lead to embarrassing and heart-breaking situations. Or, you could write to him and ask him what is the matter. Otherwise, if you do not care to do this, return his gifts, which will tell him better than words how you feel about the matter.

In overhauling an Atlantic liner recently, 1,000 people were kept busy for nearly seven weeks, and half an acre of floor covering, 3,000 yards of carpet, 10,000 yards of curtain art silk and tapestries and 18 valuable rugs were installed.

More than 9,000 buildings were erected in Mukden, China, last year.

MORE HEAT IN ANDERSON COAL

High Grade Lines are Sold by East End
Firm.

More heat, less ashes and refuse, longer burning qualities and freedom from care recommend W. T. Anderson coal to consumers of the East Liverpool district.

Caring for the furnace is one of the worst jobs we have during the winter. Wonder how much time a fellow spends down in the cellar shoveling the black diamonds into the gaping mouth of the furnace; or scraping ashes out of the pit beneath the fire bowl; and carrying them out to dispose of them somewhere?

Well, anyway, Anderson's coal is of the best quality that it is possible to bring into the district and naturally this quality is seen in more heat, less ashes and more value for your money.

KAISER BAKED S. & S. BATTERY, PRODUCTS ARE TIRE EXPERTS

ALWAYS GOOD

Makers of "Slim Jim"
And Other Popular
Breads.

SERVE BIG TRADE

East End Firm Sets
High Standard in Food Making.

The Kaiser Baking company, home of "Slim Jim" and other popular brands of bread, is one of the most widely known concerns in the district not only because it maintains a modern, scientifically equipped plant which is under experienced and expert management but also because the fame of their bread and other products has spread far and wide.

When the people who handle important articles of food and the place in which they are handled are as described, it is safe to wager that what they have to offer their customers is the best that money can buy.

This is the kind of plant operated by the Kaiser bakery, makers of all varieties of baked foods, in such great demand in the Tri-State district and the kind that they have been operating since they first opened their doors for business.

This bakery does an extensive business. So great has been their care in the effort to give the people the most wholesome food that their host of customers have utmost confidence in their products. Their bread is always crisp and fresh. It supplies strength and energy and is protected by sanitary conditions. Bread is your best food, eat more of it.

In the great experience of life there are none which recall more pleasant memories than the days of youth, when the boy or girl gets in mother's bread box just after the bake. Times have changed and many today do not get to experience this joy of life unless they patronize an institution of this kind which offers the nearest approach to the old family bread box in the days of the complexity of civilization.

You cannot buy better bread than that made at Kaiser's. Not only is it properly made from the proper ingredients which are carefully selected but it is thoroughly and properly baked. Therefore it has the delicious flavor and substance which all good bread should have.

It is well to insist on Kaiser products. Those who have never tried their bread, pies, etc., are missing one on your car, do you think instantly of setting out to buy a new one? It may pay in the future to jot down the name of Walter E. Skidmore, who has a shop in Green Lane, and think first about repairing it.

You'll be surprised at the many different jobs in the repair line that Skidmore turns out. He makes locks and keys, repairs guns, revolvers of any make, skates, adding machines, cash registers, scales, and can duplicate any small mechanical part on short notice. His shop is located in Green Lane, next to State theater.

Maintain Free Road Service for Motorists Also.

If you have had your car jacked up for the winter, it may be well to inspect your battery one of these days in preparation for spring and summer driving.

If you question its ability to deliver carefree miles of service as it did a year or so ago why not replace it and be sure? Or, possibly, have it overhauled at the S. & S. Tire and Battery Service company, in the East End.

The S. & S. Tire and Battery Service company can supply you with new or used tires and batteries. They do vulcanizing and tire work in addition to their battery servicing and also maintain a free road service.

High School Basketball Squads Win Pair From Steubenville

Book Four Games In Home Cage

Will Wind up Campaign Before Local Fans.

HIGH SCHOOL basketball teams, nearing the end of a successful season, Saturday night marked the inauguration of a home court campaign of four games by taking over Steubenville high squads in a twin bill on the auditorium.

The Hurstmen outperformed the Cartledge Red Comet, 26 to 18, and Miss Iva Miller's girls went on a scoring rampage in the preliminary to win by a score of 35 to 21 in their outstanding victory of the present season.

Edna and Wellsville teams are scheduled on the auditorium court Friday and Saturday, respectively, and on the following week comes Columbus East and Cambridge.

Columbus East, a new opponent for Blue and White passers, is filling the date left by the cancellation by Salem.

Saturday night's game here was far different from the mill staged by the Potters and the Cartledges a couple of weeks ago on the Steubenville court. Whereas the two squads rode roughshod over each other in their first meeting, in which the locals eked out a one-point win, the rivals Saturday night conducted themselves with perfect decorum, largely, it is suspected, because of the strict whistle of Referee Harr.

Lodge and Lee, a pair of veterans who became ineligible after the teams' first meeting, were not in the Steubenville lineup but, despite this, the Jefferson countians made it a game all the way. Both squads lost plenty of shots, the Steubers especially in the final quarter when they banged the leather off the boards in a desperate effort to come from behind.

With Lindell shooting in top form, however, and his mates working well on the floor, the visitors were given the tip-off on their fate before the argument had gotten well under way. Lindell is "On."

While the East Liverpool squad in general turned in a bang-up performance, Lindell's manhood was cut-nibbled. The slim forward bagged five field goals while he was in there and a brace of fouls for 12 points. With a netted total of five, McConville four, Felt four and Chetwin one.

Undoubtedly the locals could have run up a better score against the Jefferson countians but Coach Hurst, with the game pretty well bagged, chose to shoot in a flock of his seconds and reserves in the final half and while their reinforcements did not score with the frequency of the regulars the relief squad, including McNutt, Small, Crawford, Greenwood and Dyke held their own with the Comet.

Dyke started the game at center and came through in fine shape. Hurst was hesitant about starting Joe Chetwin, regular pivot man, on account of the fact that Joe's football fracture, while healed, could not be subjected to too much strain and, fearing a repetition of the former rough game, kept Chetwin on the bench for a few minutes until he saw how things were going.

But Referee Harr "bore down" when necessary and much of the hand-to-hand conflict that marked the previous meeting was missing.

Chetwin relieved Dyke before the first half was over and continued until the final whistle.

The Potter attack got under way in the first quarter and they held a 9-3 lead at the first intermission. Three points more were the best the visitors could do in the second period while the Hurstmen were adding 10.

With most of the East Liverpool Reserves in the third and fourth periods, the Steubenville attack functioned better. Each collected five points in the third canto. The locals were content with two in the windup while an ineffectual rally netted the Steubers seven.

Girls Play Great Game.

It was a rejuvenated girls' team that took the floor against the Steubenville sextet in the preliminary.

Miss Miller's maidens played like champs in running up a 35-21 score against the visitors.

The local guards were really guarding while the shot makers were pelting the baskets in a manner that meant business. Miss Cochrane, the shark shot of the Blue and White cage coterie, hung up a total of 10 field goals for the night, in addition to dropping in four points from the charity stripe and that, totalled, gives her 24 points.

Miss Steffan contributed 12 more. Miss Miller used two full teams in winning decisively from the Steubers, sending all her reserves into action at various times during the engagement.

The East Liverpool girls' attack was marked by a consistency that was evident throughout the game.

In the first quarter they lead by a 14-6 score and they outscored the opposition in every succeeding period. They made it 21 to 8 at the half, and 35 to 14 at the three-quarter mark.

World's Fastest Four Sought For Dash of Decade at O. S. U.

Williams, Wyckoff, Bracey and Simpson, Sprint Stars, May Run in Ohio State Relays.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Percy Williams, of Canada, the current world's "fastest human," Frank Wyckoff, the California schoolboy who came walking through our Olympic trials; Claude Bracey, the Texan, and George Simpson, Western Conference champion, may line up on the same mark at the same meet, it was learned today, when the annual Ohio State relays are held this spring. In other words, we had our various battles of the century in the ring; now, we may have our dash of the decade on the track.

The men they propose to involve in the transaction muster the fastest quartet of shanks known to man or, at least they will suffice in this respect until such time as legs become wings. Williams beat everybody except the starter when he won both sprints at the Olympic games and, on Saturday night, he certified these performances by winning two races at 50 and 60 yards in the smartest kind of company on a strange indoor track. He looked the part of a man who could win—and does—regardless of conditions.

Simpson Will Be There.

He had a talk with a representative of Ohio State before the Millrose games and, while he didn't commit himself definitely on the proposal in question, he indicated that it appealed to him.

Simpson, being an Ohio State undergraduate, has accepted the invitation of his home games. So has Bracey, who twice beat Simpson in clinching time at the national collegiate games and later made the Olympic team. It is a matter of understanding that Wyckoff, who got into the Olympic finals of the 100 metres only to blow his great chance, hasn't been approached yet by the Ohio State people.

The tentative program is to have the quartet appear in two races on the program at 100 and 220 yards, thus deciding the world's championship to the satisfaction of all. They can't hope to go far with a matter like that without the assistance of Wyckoff, who generally is regarded as the leading American sprinter of the day, or without Williams. He is the world's champion now and nobody yet has discovered a way of deciding a championship without the assistance of the champion concerned.

Bearcats Back On Top Again In Big 6 Race

Nose Out Denison, 37-35; Bishops Licked By Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 11.—They're back again. Those battling, smashing Bearcats of Cincinnati, 1928 champions of the Buckeye association in basketball, are again at the top and leading the way for the other five members of the famous Big Six, after a hectic week-end.

And when we say hectic, we mean just that. Ohio Wesleyan, the team that displayed championship form in all departments, leaving all opponents, including Western conference title seekers, by the wayside, has gone down nosing out, too, coming from behind in the last few minutes of the game to win from Miami, 32 to 29, when little Joe Keyser, leading scorer of the Big Six, went wild and sank three buckets in a row.

The last lap of basketball in the Buckeye association will get under way this week, with all teams playing return engagements, and there is bound to be some changing of places again. Just how it will be as hard to figure out as next year's national football champs.

Here is the standing of the Northwestern Ohio conference:

Team.	Won	Lost	Pct.
Findlay	4	1	.800
Defiance	3	1	.750
Toledo	2	2	.500
Bowling Green	2	3	.400
Bluffton	0	4	.000

Games This Week.

Monday.
Bluffton at Defiance.
Tuesday.
Toledo at Findlay.
Friday.
Bluffton at Bowling Green.
Saturday.
Toledo at Defiance.

The standing of the Buckeye Inter-collegiate Athletic association basketball race is as follows:

Team.	Won	Lost	Pct.
Cincinnati	5	2	.714
Ohio Wesleyan	4	3	.571
Denison	4	3	.571
Wittenberg	3	4	.428
Miami	2	4	.333
Ohio	2	4	.333

Games This Week:

Monday.
Ohio at Wittenberg.
Tuesday.
Cincinnati at Ohio Wesleyan.
Denison at Miami.

In the Northwestern Ohio conference, things are going along more smoothly. Findlay is leading the race, through its victory over Bowling Green last week, with four wins and one defeat.

Defiance is trailing a close second with three wins and one defeat, but has had a very successful season up to date, with a string of victories after its southern trip, just completed, winning all except one game. Bluffton is lagging far behind its foes of the conference, having no victories to its credit so far this season.

Solomon, Unglo Go F.O.E. Top

Pittsburgh, Youngstown Pugs Clash Here Tonight.

LOCAL fight fans, denied an opportunity to see Jack Unglo, the "Etna wild man," in action here this winter, will be given that chance tonight when Unglo takes on Mickey Solomon, the Youngstown puncher, in the eight-round main bout at the Eagles' arena, Broadway.

The Solomon-Unglo battle tops a four-bout card, the first the lodge organization has staged since before the holidays.

Unglo was billed in the district several weeks ago but was forced to cancel his appearance as a result of illness.

Since that time he has been working out regularly with Jack Zivic, Tarzan Poole and others in the Zivic retinue in Pittsburgh and feels in shape to take the Ohioan.

The semi-final will also attract considerable interest, inasmuch as Johnny O'Donnell, the prodigal son, has come back to fight before home town fans.

O'Donnell has campaigned in various sections of Ohio for several years, holding, at one time, the state bantamweight title. He spent most of his time in Cleveland and at McCook Field, Dayton.

He will take on Jackie Powers, the Youngstown kid who packs a husky punch in either mitt. Powers fought in Wellsville sometime ago and finished with a win.

Nick Caruso, Midland, meets Johnny Pollock, another Youngstown favorite in one of the four-round preliminaries, while Young Danny, Midland, and Johnny Myers, Pittsburgh, both newcomers here, open in the first bout.

Minehart Bats For Paulsey

Takes Tony's Place on Big Y Five, Here Wednesday.

WITH the same expert aggregation of field goal seekers, barring the sole exception of Tony Paulsey, now a Geneva Collegian, the Youngstown Big Y five, or the Campbell Merchants, whichever they choose to call themselves, will trot out their 1929 "stuff" before East Liverpool cage fans Wednesday night on the auditorium court against the Ceramics.

Strouss, Mills, Minehart, Check and Bailey, all veterans of Youngstown Y basketball, and all members of the squad, which under the name of the Campbell Merchants, were the big noises in the Tri-State district court tournament, will be back again, together with added talent.

Minehart, the big guard who worked with Paulsey last season, has taken Tony's place at center and a pair of former high school stars have been taken on to fill in the gap as the occasion demands.

The Youngstowners were the state Y. M. C. A. champions last spring and runners-up for the national title.

Wolverines Running Away With Big Ten

Beat State, 34-24; go After Northwestern Tonight.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Ohio State having failed to halt the victorious march of Michigan's basketball five, Northwestern's Wildcats will take up the cudgel at Evanston tonight to see what can be done about throttling down the Wolverine pace.

The "stop Michigan!" cry is being echoed over the Big Ten conference to the accompaniment of hysterics. It becomes increasingly apparent that if there is to be anything to this so-called race, beside Michigan, some way must be found to blackjack the Wolves into a couple of setbacks.

When the Buckeyes failed Saturday night, to the tune of 24 to 34, they left Michigan still undefeated and settling the pace with five straight victories. If Northwestern fails to stop them tonight, the Arbor boys might just as well be credited with seven successive wins, because this Saturday they play the lowly Minnesota quintet. Unless each of the Michigan sharpshooters breaks a leg, that game might as well be charged off now.

On their records, Michigan rates a 2 to 1 favorite to beat the Purple tonight. Coach Lombor's five would stand a much better chance if Rut Walter, star center, were available for the entire game. Northwestern to date has won three games and lost three.

Purdue and Wisconsin still remain deadlocked for second place, each with five wins and one defeat. Neither plays a conference foe tonight, but both will go into action Saturday night. Purdue plays Northwestern at Evanston and Wisconsin tackles Indiana at Bloomington.

Illinois, which beat Chicago Saturday, 33 to 29, will clash with the Gophers at Minneapolis tonight in the only other Big Ten game scheduled. Iowa climbed to fourth place in the standings by defeating Indiana Saturday. The score was 29 to 27. This gave the Hawks four victories with two defeats.

All ten teams will get into action this Saturday. Beside the games already mentioned, Ohio State plays Illinois at Champaign, and Chicago clashes with the Hawkeys at Iowa City.

OHIO U. BOOKS MINNESOTA NINE

ATHENS, O., Feb. 11.—Ohio university will meet its second Big Ten opponent in baseball this year when the University of Minnesota nine plays here April 15, it was announced today by Professor O. C. Bird, director of athletics.

The game will be one of several that the western team will play on a trip to the east part of the country.

Ohio State university, the other Big Ten team, will be met at Columbus, April 6.

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

"She's meeting it," observed the operator, steadying Harriet by a firm touch on the shoulder. Harriet thought: "The tramontana is helping me." And she blessed the famous wind. "May I sit down just for a moment?" she asked. "I'm not a very good sailor."

She told this fib with the most appalling convincingness, and unsteadily, with the operator's assistance, sat down.

"Could I have something to drink?" She smiled plaintively.

"There's only one glass."

"One will be enough." She smiled bravely.

"Whisky."

"Anything."

She drank—and tried to read the operator's mood. He had offered her the sole glass with all the grace that would naturally be expected from an earl's grandson, and baron's nephew.

"I'm better."

"I'm so glad." The operator bent over her attentively.

She sighed with relief and said: "Mr. Tunncliffe, can you give a bit of paper and a pencil?"

When he had supplied her want, she wrote a few words, using the volume of Swinburne as a support for the paper.

"Now Mr. Tunncliffe," she said, "I quite see that it would be wrong of me to urge you any more to send off any message that hasn't been authorized by the powers. And I wouldn't dream of urging you. But you have no orders against receiving messages, have you?"

"Well, of course not, dear lady. I'm here to receive messages."

"Any messages?"

"Certainly. There's no choice. I don't quite understand you."

"It's very simple," said Harriet. "Will you receive this message?"

She handed him the paper, upon which he read: "Captain, Yacht Vanguard. You are requested to anchor at mouth of Tiber and await visit from officials. Benito Mussolini, Palazzo Chigi Rome."

The operator, reading the shaky script, maintained a most meritorious impassivity.

"You wish me to write out this message and hand it to the skipper as though I had got it on the wireless?"

"Yes. Why not?" Harriet looked up at the man with an imploring, inviting smile—a smile surely irresistible.

The operator smiled to match. "Yes," thought Harriet, "he is extraordinarily handsome."

"It is you who are wonderful," he breathed, softly gazing at her. "I'm not flatterer you."

She shook her head modestly, but her thought was: "So I am wonderful!" And she did not take her eyes off him. Her glance, as it were, melted into his.

The cabin gave another slight lurch. She put out a hand to steady herself. The operator held it.

"Of course," said he. "There's no order to prevent me from doing this."

"I've won!" thought Harriet.

"And what a lark!" the operator added.

"Yes, isn't it!" Harriet agreed. "But it's serious, too. You don't know how important it is that I should get off—I mean go ashore—as quickly as possible. I do beg you as a favor—I throw myself on your good nature—"

The operator squeezed her hand ever so delicately. "A strange yacht," he seemed to be musing aloud. "Where guests are forbidden to communicate with their friends ashore!"

"Come to look at it!"

"Just go!" Harriet concurred humbly.

"Had you already had this very brilliant idea when you came in to see me?" asked the operator. "Forgive my question. It's all so interesting."

"No! The idea came into my head just now."

Harriet spoke with pleased confidence. The tension of expectation was nearly over. Yes, she had captured the operator as she had captured others. The ancient wise saws of mankind about the power of woman and the weakness of wicked men were profoundly true in their estimate of human nature. She realized triumphantly that through this elegant and untidy youth she was mistress of the movements of the mighty yacht. And she laughed to herself as she waited for his formal surrender to her seductiveness.

And Falls

"But, dear lady," said the operator, and his voice was as winsome as Harriet's own, "you're acting rather dangerously, aren't you? I think it my duty to warn you before anything is done that can't be undone."

"How dangerously? Nobody will be able to prove that you haven't had the message. And if any trouble does arise we can always put down the message to some practical joker."

"But the Marconi offices keep record of all the messages they send out."

"I dare say they do. But what about a practical joker on some other ship? If you only knew it, you wireless operators, you've got the control of ships entirely in your hands. A secret league of wireless operators could disorganize the traffic of the whole world for their own ends."

"Quite. I agree. You have imagination. But I wasn't looking at it from my own angle at all. I'm thinking about the yacht. This is no ordinary sort of yacht. I don't mind telling you from my own knowledge that the Vanguard is a very peculiar sort of yacht. I could startle you if I chose. Only my lips are sealed—as they say. Anything might happen on this yacht. And remember that the owner has been assaulted and knocked senseless, and that his assailant is on board. If the Captain's instructions were to go direct to Genoa, you may depend that there was an important reason for it. Your scheme might upset something that really oughtn't to be upset. And there's another point. This Mr. Sutherland, the bruiser, has to be watched. At Ostia he might get away in spite of the Captain. There's no police force worth talking about at Ostia. The port of Genoa has all the most modern developments of policing."

Harriet said easily: "I'll take all the responsibility. After all, I'm Lord Furber's secretary."

"You're what?" Astonishment in the tone!

Harriet thought: "He's holding my hand rather a long time."

She said: "His Lordship's confidential secretary. At least, he offered me the place only about an hour ago. I didn't accept it instantly. But, since—since things happened I have accepted it, though of course he doesn't know. So I am Lord Furber's secretary, and while he's ill I'm entitled to act on his behalf, seeing that I stand higher than your cousin." She thought she saw in the operator's demeanor a clear indication that he was considerably impressed.

The operator replied: "Forgive me if I say that I doubt if you know exactly what you want, and anyhow I don't think you fully realize what you'll be doing if I carry out your suggestion about this message. For instance, when we reach the neighborhood of Ostia, what shall you do next?"

"I'll decide that when we get to Ostia, dear Mr. Tunncliffe," Harriet murmured softly. "I admire your caution. But I repeat, I'll take the responsibility. All I ask just now is your help, and hope you won't refuse it."

Her tone said: "I'm perfectly sure you won't refuse it—can't refuse it."

The operator smiled with a chivalry almost tender, and his next words were uttered in a low, enveloping voice that surpassed even the smile.

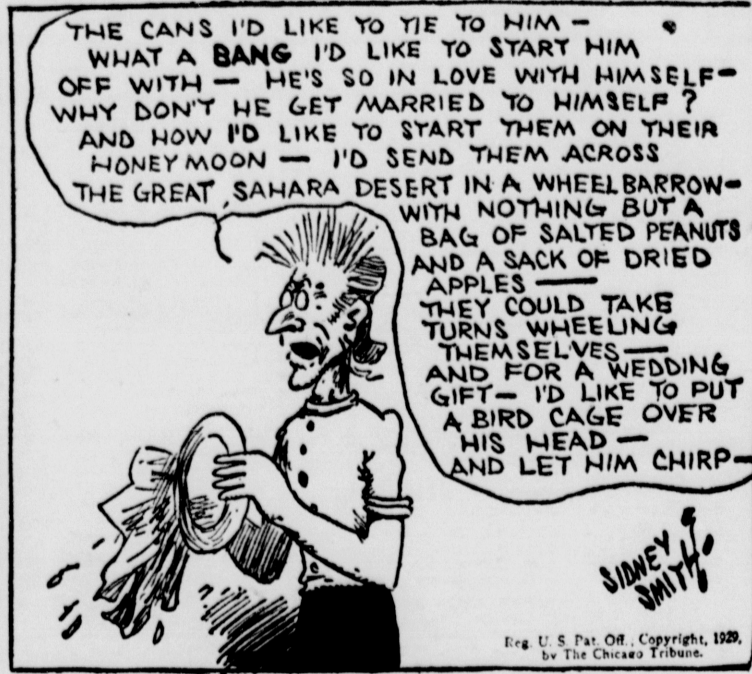

"Just let me say this," he began. His face approached Harriet's. He paused.

"When will he loose my hand?" thought Harriet. "Really he's going rather far."
